CHUARIA, VENDOTAENIA, AND THE TAPHONOMY OF THE CARBONACEOUS COMPRESSION

Evan Pelzner Anderson

Thesis submitted to the faculty of the Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University in partial fulfillment of the requirements for the degree of

Master of Science

In

Geosciences

Shuhai Xiao, Chair
Michal J. Kowalewski
J. Fred Read

May 3, 2010
Blacksburg, VA

Keywords: Vendotaenia, Chuaria, Carbonaceous Compression, Taphonomy, Elemental Mapping
Figure A1.143 - Dorsal surface of SFT-25.5

Figure A1.144 - Ventral surface of SFT-25.5

Figure A1.145 - Long lateral surface of SFT-25.5

Figure A1.146 - "Dorsal" surface of MH-7

Figure A1.147 - "Ventral" surface of MH-7
Figure A1.148 - Long lateral surface of MH-7

Figure A1.149 - “Foot” surface of split bed of MH-7

Figure A1.150 - “Sole” surface of split bed of MH-7

Figure A1.151 - Cross-section of MH-7 showing the relation of the “sole” surface to the “foot” surface

Figure A1.152 - “Dorsal” surface of J LW-F10-1