Acknowledgements

I thank God for giving me too many blessings to count.

This thesis project is dedicated to my wonderful family Marcia L. Morris, Donald B. Morris and Rico Morris. Thank you for always supporting me and being my private cheering squad.

Darius you are my constant star. I love you. Thank you for always being there.

The entire Withers family has become my second family. I thank God for kind and nurturing people like you.

The two years I spent at the Alexandria Center were some of the best years of my adult life. I developed on a personal and professional level under the tutelage of my professors, but also my peers. Gayll, Maryse, Annette, Omi and Gilda you are an amazing group of women, we will be friends for the rest of our lives. Ginger, Scott, Rich, Carrie, Ozer, Pat, Muzahid Ali, JD, Catherine and Phan thank you for the inspiration and the constant joy.

...the threshold as a built facility is just as important for social contacts as thick walls are for privacy.
Herman Hertzberger

...the threshold as a platform in its own right, a place where two worlds overlap, rather than a sharp demarcation.
Herman Hertzberger
The threshold, and the door show the solution of continuity in space immediately and concretely; hence their great religious importance, for they are symbols and at the same time, vehicles of passage from one space to the other.

Susan Piedmont-Palladino: Chairperson
You guided me through the emotion, to the architecture. You helped me turn my memory into something tectonic. Thank you very much for being a wonderful mentor.

Marco Frascari: Committee Member
You helped me think outside the box. Thank you for sharing your vision for architecture as art.

Ron Kagawa: Committee Member
Thank you for all your encouragement. Each week you left an inspiring note or article. Thank you for finding joy in educating others.

Jaan Holt: WAAC Director
You inspire. You nurture. In your presence, young minds enjoy the process of creation. Thank you for your guidance and for sharing your love of architecture.
