Table of Contents

Acknowledgements iv

List of Tables vii

Introduction: The Labour Party, Electoral Success, and Failure 1

1. A Theoretical Framework for Studying The Labour Party in Opposition 7

2. 1979-83: Weak Agency and Labour’s Electoral Nadir 25

Conclusions 103

Bibliography 108

Vita 115
List of Tables

1.1  Labour Party performance in British General Elections, 1945-92
2.1  British General Election Results, 1979 and 1983
2.2  Respondents’ Perceptions of Unity and Divisions in Major Parties, 1983
2.3  Vote by Respondents’ Perceptions of Labour Party, 1983
2.4  Vote by Party Leader Most Likely to Get the Most Out of a Team, 1983
2.5  Party with Views Closest to Own by Policy Area, 1983
2.6  Should the Government Pass Stricter Trade Union Laws?
2.7  Respondents’ Attitudes to the Common Market
2.9  Vote by Respondents’ Perceptions of Labour Party, 1983
2.10 ‘Flow of the Vote’, 1979-83
2.11 Class Composition of the Electorate, 1964 and 1983
3.1  General Election Results, 1987 and 1992
3.2  Respondents’ Perceptions of Labour Party Unity, 1987 and 1992
3.3  Respondents’ Perceptions of Labour Party by Vote, 1992
3.4  Perceived Issue Positions of Labour and Electorate, 1987
3.5  Respondents’ Perceptions of Differences Between Conservative and Labour Parties, 1983-92
3.6  Respondents’ Perceived Issue Positions of Labour, 1992
3.7  Respondents’ Perceptions of Labour Party Extremism, 1987-92
3.8  Respondents’ Perceptions of Governing Capability of Labour Party, 1987-92
3.9  Respondents’ Perceptions of Governing Capability of Conservative Party, 1987-92
4.1  Respondents’ Perceptions of Which Party Has Best Policies, 1992-96
4.2  Occupational Structures in Britain, 1992-95 (Goldthorpe-Heath Schema)